PUBLIC ART INSTALLATION

INTERSECTION OF HOWE STREET & FAIRVIEW STREET

On Saturday 4 August, Prospect Hill is realizing an exciting public art project—an intersection mural in front of Building Trades Park.

Funded by the City of Bloomington's Neighborhood Improvement Grant program, this street mural features a design created by local Prospect Hill artist Becky Holtzman.

Becky's work, Common Pollen, is front and center at the neighborhood's main entrance to the park. It magnifies the image of a tiny, ubiquitous sunflower pollen into a unique larger-than-life feature of reclaimed public street space.

Neighborhood volunteers will be working throughout the day to plan and paint the mural. All are invited to stop by and participate!
